In the first row there are 2 items and in the second there is one. I want to be able to get the second item in the second row using a randomly selected index. Any help would be appreciated. A: You can use Collections.shuffle(yourList) and get your selected item with yourList.get(0). If you want to randomly select the item from the second row: Create a list of items in the second row Create a Random object with your number of random numbers to choose from Call random.nextInt(list.size) which will return the index to choose.
